

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
AT SEATTLE

CHRISTOPHER WILLIAM HARRIS,

Plaintiff(s),

v.

LISA COMBS, et al.,

Defendant(s).

CASE NO. C23-0988-KKE

ORDER DENYING PLAINTIFF'S
MOTIONS FOR EXTENSION AND COURT-APPOINTED COUNSEL

This matter comes before the Court on Plaintiff Christopher William Harris's motion to appoint counsel and motion for extension of time. Dkt. Nos. 12 & 17. Mr. Harris, proceeding pro se, filed a complaint alleging that Defendants violated his civil rights by disclosing his confidential and protected medical information and/or by relying on that information to request modification of his bond in an unrelated criminal proceeding. See Dkt. No. 6.

The Court denies Mr. Harris's motion for extension of time because Mr. Harris has not identified a deadline that he wishes to extend. See Dkt. No. 17.

Plaintiff's motion to appoint counsel is also denied. Generally, no constitutional right to appointed counsel exists in civil actions. Storseth v. Spellman, 654 F.2d 1349, 1353 (9th Cir. 1981). In "exceptional circumstances," however, a district court may appoint counsel for indigent civil litigants under 28 U.S.C. § 1915(e)(1). See, e.g., Palmer v. Valdez, 560 F.3d 965, 970 (9th Cir. 2009). To decide whether exceptional circumstances exist, the Court must evaluate both "the

1 likelihood of success on the merits [and] the ability of the [plaintiff] to articulate his claims pro
2 se in light of the complexity of the legal issues involved.” Wilborn v. Escalderon, 789 F.2d 1328,
3 1331 (9th Cir. 1986) (cleaned up).

4 In Mr. Harris’s motion to appoint counsel, he contends that he is at a disadvantage in
5 pursuing this case due to his lack of education and resources. Dkt. No. 17. The Court has no
6 reason to question those assertions, but finds them inadequate to establish exceptional
7 circumstances for purposes of resolving Mr. Harris’s motion to appoint counsel. Mr. Harris has 8 not shown, nor does the Court find, that this case involves complex facts or law. Mr. Harris has 9 also not shown an inability to articulate the factual basis of his claims in a fashion understandable
10 to the Court, nor has he shown he is likely to succeed on the merits of this case. As such, the Court
11 finds that Mr. Harris has failed to show the appointment of counsel is appropriate at this time.

12 For all of these reasons, the Court DENIES Mr. Harris’s motions. Dkt. Nos. 12 & 17. In 13 light of Mr. Harris’s request for more information about the status of his case (Dkt. No. 14), the 14 clerk is directed to mail Mr. Harris a copy of the docket sheet along with this order.

15 Dated this 6th day of October, 2023.
